

The Crisis of American Savings & Loan Associations: A Comprehensive Analysis (Europäische Hochschulschriften Reihe V, Volks- Und Betriebswirtschaft)

The aim of this thesis is to show the reasons and causes of the S&Ls crisis during the decade of the 80s. It had been various individual facts, factors and also their interaction and mutual influence, that played a role in making the crisis. A comparison between S&Ls and German Mortgage Banks in the aspects mortgage types, project financing and capital requirements shows that it had been the prevailing circumstances of the S&Ls branch, which favoured the emergence and course of the S&Ls crisis. With the Principal-Agent Theory cooperative designs can be used for the mutual cooperation of S&Ls and their supervisory agencies and risk reduction within the sector.
